CWL NEWS

Stay informed: Who is CNEWA?

CNEWA is a papal agency for humanitarian and pastoral support for refugees. Pope Benedict XVI has made the plight of Middle East Christians a priority of the church, calling on all Christians to support them in thought, prayer and deed. The persecutions of Christians in Iraq, Palestine, Egypt, and the recent conflict in Syria have left Christians very vulnerable to ongoing persecution. A report from the UN reported more than 2,000 new Christian refugees have fled from Syria to Lebanon in the past two days. (Catholic News Service, March 6th). Middle East Christians are struggling to keep the faith – let us not forget their plight, and reach out to them by our prayers.

O.F.F. WORKSHOP

The Office of Faith Formation is presenting a workshop called: On Good Soil - Pastoral Planning for Evangelization and Catechesis with Adults. This program will launch an approach to ministry endorsed by the Canadian Conference of Bishops and rooted in the Canadian culture. It gives us a new lens through which all adult faith formation in our parishes will be used. This type of directive from the CCCB only comes every eight or ten years. The workshop will include relevant reflection, constructive suggestions and sound orientations for effective, life-giving evangelizing and catechetical ministry with adults. Anyone who ministers to adults in the community is invited to attend. This includes persons who are engaged in RCIA, sacramental preparation. Anyone who works in adult formation is encouraged to attend.

The On Good Soil Workshop will be held April 24th – 26 at ICC Parish in Kelowna. The workshop is facilitated by Sandy Prather, B.Ed., M.Th. an adjunct lecturer at Newman Theological College and a monthly columnist for the Prairie Messenger. Registration forms are available on the Faith Formation website – www.nelsondiocese.org click on Faith Formation. ## DEVELOPMENT AND PEACE

Alternatives From Globalization to re-localization

Around the world, committed groups of people are already articulating ways of living in community with one another and in harmony with the Earth. They may be drawing on traditional, long-undervalued wisdom, or their own practices, to create road maps for an ecologically sound future.

Some have named the necessary next step re-localization, an alternative to the economic globalization we are familiar with. The following is a story of people reclaiming what has worked in the past and making it their own, for the betterment of themselves, their communities and the greater Earth community.

North America The hundred-mile diet

In 2007, two young Canadian writers made headlines when their bestselling book, The Hundred Mile Diet, illustrated the challenges of living on a diet with all its components produced within 100 miles (160 km). Sources of food became a common topic of conversation.

Many Canadians started to question the carbon footprint produced by eating a diet of increasingly imported food. A significant number made more food purchasing decisions based on where their food was produced. In some regions of Canada, farmers' markets featuring locally produced food have proliferated. There now appears to be a heightened interest in eating locally, and a growing acknowledgment that food tastes best and is most nutritious when it's grown close to home.
